

SAVE THE DATE!

2014 Public Policy Institute: Gun Violence as a Matter of the Public's Health

Presented by the Ohio Public Health Association

Tuesday, April 1st from 9:00am to 3:30pm

At Columbus Public Health, 240 Parsons Ave, Columbus

Don't let the date fool you - gun violence is a serious public health issue. In Ohio, firearms are the leading method used in violent deaths. Join the OPHA to find out what the research and data show and what can be done to approach the issue from a multi-disciplinary perspective.

Featured speakers include: Deanna Wilkinson from Ohio State University; Mbabazi Kariisa from the Ohio Department of Health; Daniel Flannery from Case Western Reserve University; Eric Jefferis from Kent State University; and Kwame Christian and Charles Noble from the Kirwan Institute.

Registration will be available via the OPHA calendar at ohiophw.org. Lunch is included.

OPHA member price: $60, Non-member price $90
Student member $30, Non-member $40

For more information: ohiophw@gmail.com

Follow us @OhioPHA on Twitter

Facebook: <http://www.facebook.com/pages/Ohio-Public-Health-Association/132872653420776>